

STEAMER BURNS AT SEA, MANY PERISH

Did You Know
By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT the Whigs exerted strong influence in politics in Circleville and Pickaway-co 80 years ago. At that time the organization was able to elect an entire township and corporation ticket. Interesting were the attacks made back and forth in the two newspapers of the time, The Circleville Herald, which supported the Whigs, and The Circleville Watchman, an out and out Democratic paper. An amusing editorial boosting the Whigs' cause, appearing in The Herald of April 18, 1850, in part, follows:

"The Whigs have elected the entire township and corporation ticket, time after time and can do it again! All we want is spunk! We have a wary, artful opponent to contend with. His mode of warfare does not consist of so much strength in numbers as it does in tactics. His manner of engagement is not to attack on the open field, in daylight, but to lie in ambush, to sneak, coax, beggle and chaffer with his 'game' until a sneakish charm is thrown around it, and then should he be successful, he mounts his roost and crows after this fashion: 'The entire Democratic ticket elected!' Hold him, old rooster!—Never fear, I've got him! Whiggery's usual weapons, falsehood, cunningness and knavery were exhausted at their utmost, but wouldn't do! . . ."

Jonathan Renick, Jacob Taylor, Alfred Luddington, Acker King and John Boyer were on the Whig committee to promote a thorough organization of the party forces in the county. The candidates at the election in 1850, at which the Whigs scored a complete victory, were: Mayor, John Boyer; Councilmen, R. H. Wilson, F. Robinson, T. C. Jones and Acker King; Democrats, Mayor, C. M. Foreman; Councilmen, William Doane, George Hamill, A. G. Richwine and Wayne Griswold.

The voting places were located in George Hamill's shop; Jonathan Renick's office; John Hedges' shop and Dr. Blake's office.

And more amusing editorial comment from the columns of The Herald after the Whig victory:

"The noble-hearted Whigs of Circleville most faithfully did their duty Monday last. That same old sick chicken never put forth greater exertions to defeat us than they did on that occasion. Our opponents were sure of success. They boasted of having every voter's name down and advertised their majority in each ward. The Whigs are not dead yet!"

That on June 7, 1850, three local residents captured what is believed to have been the largest fish ever taken from the Scioto river. It was a giant cat and measured four feet, three inches in length. It was also two feet, two inches in circumference and across the mouth it measured seven inches. The cat's gross weight was 46½ pounds.

That Circleville's first public school opened 80 years ago this fall. John Lynch was the first superintendent. Classes began on Nov. 22, 1852. Eight hundred pupils enrolled in the school during the first week of its opening. Not only did this first Circleville educational institution maintain a first class high school, but also, according to newspapers of the time, "the arrangements are such that scholars can receive a thorough collegiate education after having finished their preparatory studies should they desire to do so."

1,700 PUPILS ARE READY TO RESUME WORK

School Bells to Ring Monday Morning; Length of Term Uncertain

SCHEDULE LISTED

Pumpkin Show Parade Expected to be Talked

School bells will sound the death knell for vacation days Monday as 1,700 students pick up their books and other supplies to return to the Circleville classrooms for another study period, the length of which is unknown at present.

Supt. E. L. Daley said Saturday that preparations have been made for the doors of the five school buildings in the city to swing open at 8:30 a. m. for a half-day session, with classes to start full time Tuesday morning.

Confronted with the largest registration in the history of Circleville high school, Principal E. L. Gephart and his office staff have been working studiously for a week to attempt to complete arrangements for the opening of the term. Saturday morning a total of 393 pupils had been registered at the high school, an increase of 13 over last year with a probability of more next week.

Principal Gephart said Saturday that 419 students can be seated in the high school building if necessary.

The first day enrollment in the city's schools last year was 1,658, representing 1,295 grade pupils and 363 high school students.

The opening day's program in the elementary schools is: Buildings open at 8:30 a. m., followed by registrations and filing of registration sheets with teachers. Instructors will also furnish information relative to the text-books to be used and after making assignments for the next day, classes will be dismissed. All elementary principals will report their enrollment by grades to the office of Supt. Daley by 10 a. m.

Principal Gephart has worked out the following schedule for opening day in the high school: All teachers of the high school will meet with him at 7:30 a. m. when all matters relative to opening will be discussed. ### FELLOWSHIP IN WORSHIP

Professor Edwin Lewis says, "If you do not worship with Christ's people, and if you do not seek their fellowship, if you do not bear testimony among them, and if you do not seek to be instructed with them by those who are set apart and trained for that purpose, then while it may still be that you claim to follow Christ, it will nevertheless be true that you cut yourself off from much of the deeper meaning of the Christian life and that you greatly restrict the social significance of your discipleship."

Circleville has had in its midst one group of ministers and laymen for several days and will continue to have another group until Sunday noon. The groups differ in name and policy but after attending some of the meetings of each group, there was evidence of a common purpose. The heart beat was the same. The passion for the salvation of men was the same. Loyalty to Jesus Christ was evidenced by both. Of the ministers it could be said, as a group they are fine, strong men. Of the laymen, they represented well our citizenship. Such men are the saving salt of our society. With such evidence how can we continue to say the church is losing out. It can never lose out, even though it dwindle to a remnant. That remnant will be like the leaven leavening the lump, the spiritual savor of society, the preacher of repentance, of hope, of salvation to the individual man. Circleville should be stronger religiously for the presence of these two groups. Make your contribution by going to church tomorrow. Take a friend.

The baby for whom 30,000,000 Tibetan souls have been praying has been found. It is reported that a child has been found in a humble home in the remotest part of the mountain country whose tiny body is said to hold the soul of the Buddhist pontiff who died in December. The head lama will continue to rule until the baby is 18 years old.

Seventy nine students received diplomas at the last commencement of Moody Institute, Chicago. These students represented 20 states of the Union and 6 foreign countries. Seven hundred and seventy certificates for completed courses have been sent to students in all parts of the world.

Two thousand years ago there were no Christians in the world. Jews numbered less than one million and were a subject people. In the first three hundred years after the coming of Christ the Christians in spite of persecution grew to number 5,000,000. According to the government census the Christian population of India has increased to about six million in the last three centuries.

A spiritual clinic has been opened in Chicago for visitors to the Century of Progress exposition. Every night until Oct. 31 the doors of one of Chicago's churches are thrown open for diagnosis, discussion and treatment of personal national ills. The cause and cure of city rackets, the way out of economic straits and such problems are considered. The clinic and forum grew out of a three-fold evangelistic campaign opened in the Third Presbyterian church the past month. In the chapel of this church visitors or members of the community may come for help in solving their problems.

Texts of Famous Men

It is interesting to note the Biblical texts which influenced the lives of a number of great men.

The text which John Bunyan used when he preached to the multitudes—John 6:37.

The text that saved William Cowper from suicide—Romans 3:24, 25.

The text that made Martin Luther the hero of the Reformation—Romans 1:17.

The text that comforted the troubled soul of John Wesley—Mark 12:34.

The text that made David Livingstone a missionary—Matthew 28:19, 20.

The text to which John Knox looked for guidance—John 17:3.

The text that gave William Carey a world vision—Isaiah 54:2.

The text that made William Penn a conqueror—I John 5:4.

The text on which Michael Faraday staked everything—II Timothy 1:12.

Lesson for September 9

HEZEKIAH LEADS HIS PEOPLE BACK TO GOD

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 30:1-27.

GOLDEN TEXT—For if ye turn again unto the Lord, your brethren and your children shall find compassion before them that lead them captive, so that they shall come again into this land for the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto him. II Chronicles 30:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A King's Call to God's House.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A King's Call to Worship God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Makes a Good Leader? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Godly Leaders in Civic Life.

1. Hezekiah Calls the People to Keep the Passover (vv. 1-12).

The way for a sinner and divided people to get back to God and be united is around the crucified Lord. The Passover was a memorial to the nation's deliverance through the shedding of the blood of the sacrificial lamb.

1. The invitation was representative of the nation (v. 2). The king took counsel with the princes and the congregation to show that the proclamation was the expression of the nation's desire.

2. The time was unusual (vv. 2-4). There was not sufficient time to sanctify the people nor to gather them together at the regular time, so they resolved, instead of postponing it for a year, to hold it on the fourteenth day of the second month. This liberty had been granted before in an exigency (Num. 9:9-13).

3. The scope of the invitation (vv. 5-9). It included all of both nations who would come to keep the Passover to the Lord God of Israel. "Israel" is now used to include both kingdoms. The effort was to win back the nation which had seceded. The posts who were sent the message were authorized to supplement the proclamation with an urgent exhortation to join as a united nation. This urgent invitation was tactfully put as follows:

a. It touched ancestral memories—"Turn again unto the Lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel" (v. 6). Both kingdoms had a common ancestry.

b. Recent bitter experience—"Be not ye like your fathers and brethren who trespassed against the Lord God and were given up to desolation as ye see" (v. 7).

c. Yearning for captive kinsfolk—"Your brethren and children shall find compassion before their captors" (v. 9).

d. The instinct of self-preservation—"So that they shall come again into this land" (v. 9).

e. The forgiving mercy of God—"For the Lord your God is gracious and merciful" (v. 9). God will not turn any sincere seeker from him (John 6:37).

4. Israel's reception of the invitation (vv. 10-12). This invitation by Israel met a mingled response:

a. Some mocked (v. 10). This urgent and sincere invitation excited only opposition and ridicule by certain tribes.

b. Some with humble hearts came to Jerusalem (v. 11). In Judah God gave them one heart to accept the summons to unite in the Lord around the great Passover.

11. The Passover Kept (vv. 13-27).

1. Removal of heathen altars (vv. 13, 14). These altars were erected in Jerusalem in the time of Ahab (28:24). Before there could be worship of the true God, all those traces of idolatry must be removed.

2. The Passover killed (v. 15). The zeal of the people was shown in their going forward with the service, though the priests were not ready for their task.

3. The priests and Levites shamed (v. 15-20). The zeal of the people put to shame the priests and the Levites. They were stimulated to perform their duties by the law of God as given by Moses. They even took charge of the killing of the passover, since many of the officers were not sanctified so as to render this service for themselves. The Lord healed—that is, forgave the people.

4. The praise of glad hearts (vv. 21, 22). They continued for seven days in this glad service.

a. The Levites and priests sang God's praises daily on loud instruments (v. 21).

b. Hezekiah spoke comforting words to the Levites (v. 22) and commended their and their teaching of the knowledge of God.

c. They made confession of their sins to God (v. 23). This was the evidence that their action was genuine.

5. The Passover prolonged seven days (vv. 23-27). The king's object in prolonging the feast was to make a lasting impression upon the people so as to result in thorough conversion. The rejoicing was taken part in by even the strangers that came out of Israel.

What is actually being thought about church unity by the rank and file, laymen, ministers, and others interested in the church in the modern world?

To find a fair answer to this question, Dr. H. Paul Douglass made a study for three years based on replies from 20,000 persons as registered in questionnaires. Two thirds of those reporting stated that they favored union of some sort, either federal or general; nine out of ten voting favored the union of related denominations; the outstanding feature of these results is that almost exactly twice as many replies favor union in some form as favor the continuance of the present denominational system. The votes for federal union and for general union run neck and neck. Other findings of the study are that ministers are considerably more in favor of church union than laymen, though they lean heavily toward the federal rather than the general type of union; men are more in favor of it than women, and older people more than young people, while the strongest defenders of the present denominational system are those who are not members of any church. Inter-church cooperation is increasingly recognized as a step toward union and is accordingly feared or favored.

LINER BURNS

Landed in lifeboats at points along the New Jersey coast: Between 75 and 80.

Picked up by the liner Monarch of Bermuda, sister ship of the Morro Castle: 55.

Rescued by the S. S. Andrew Luckenbach: 22.

Brought into quarantine by the liner President Cleveland of the Dollar line: An undetermined number of the crew.

How many of those rescued by the Monarch of Bermuda and landed safely from lifeboats after a perilous journey through heavy seas were passengers and could not be ascertained immediately.

But even with these rescues, there remained a huge gap between the known survivors and the number known to have been aboard the Morro Castle when some malignant fury brought about her end.

Grave fears were felt the disaster might even eclipse that of the liner Vestris, which sank off the Virginia Capes in 1925 with a death-toll of 110 and furnished the annals of shipping on the American side of the Atlantic with one of its worst catastrophes.

The unbelievable swiftness of the disaster, paralleled by few in the history of marine tragedies, undoubtedly contributed to the heavy toll of dead.

It was at 3:15 a. m. when the radio operator sent the first message crackling through the ether to advise the world that his mammoth ship was in difficulties. It asked all wireless stations to "stand by for emergencies."

S. O. S. AT 4:25 A. M.

At 4:25 an S. O. S. was sent, advising the ship's position as 20 miles south of Scotland lightship.

Then came the one which revealed the full terrible truth: "Can't work much longer. Fire directly under radio room."

Between the time of the first distress signal and the hour when the liner, a blazing inferno, was abandoned, scenes of indescribable horror were enacted above and below her polished decks.

One sailor who reached shore in a lifeboat told how the passengers were sleeping when the fire broke out; how flames sweeping the companionways prevented the crew from racing from cabin to cabin to give the notice of alarm; how tongues of fire reduced some lifeboats to ashes and walls of flame formed an impassable barrier to others.

Thus the rescue facilities of the great ship itself were reduced within a short time after the fire broke out, and the heavy surf pounding the black hull of the doomed ship gravely endangered those fortunate enough to escape burning and suffocation and find themselves places in the boats that could be launched.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—The burned-out Ward liner Morro Castle has been taken in tow by the U. S. Coast guard cutter, Tampa, and an effort is being made to tow her into New York, coast guard headquarters here were advised today.

The dispatch stated that an unnamed tug also had a line aboard the Morro Castle and was assisting in the steering of the burned ship.

KINGSTON

Paul Zumbro and Dr. Burris, poultry specialists from Ohio State university, will accompany Mr. Blair on the tour.

1,700 PUPILS

will be introduced and general instructions issued.

After general instructions have been given, pupils will report to their designated session rooms where they will receive schedules and given registration sheets. Teachers will also furnish information regarding individual schedules and when registration is completed, students will go to their first period classes.

When an eight-period schedule, with each period not to exceed 15 minutes has been completed, classes will be dismissed not later than 12 noon. Pupils will be instructed relative to textbooks and a resume of courses during the short class sessions.

Textbooks will be on sale at the high school bookstore during the afternoon and will be offered to students at cost. A list of the texts was printed in Thursday's Herald and Principal Gephart warns buyers of used books to be sure that they are the correct editions.

A general meeting of all city teachers will be held in Room 6 of the high school building at 2 p. m. Monday when Supt. Daley will outline his plans for the year.

It is expected that the school parade to be presented at the Pumpkin Show will be one of the subjects discussed at this meeting.

Wittich's Candy Again Is Gaining Place in Business

"A good piece of candy at a very popular price" is the motto of Fred Wittich's candy shop, 227 E. Main-st. Continuing a business that has been known to Circleville in households for nearly 100 years, in fact since G. F. Wittich started to make candy here, Mr. Wittich makes all his candy right in his E. Main-st. establishment.

He invites you to stop in and watch the process which is indeed interesting.

Wittich's fine candy has gained a wide reputation and justly deserves all the praise it has received. Mr. Wittich's chocolates are all made with pure cream no water being used in the formulas.

The store is open every day in addition to Saturday evening. Parking places are always available for Mr. Wittich's many friends.

The proprietor is being assisted by Miss Frances Binkley in the operation of the store.

With the fall season coming on a full line of sweets will be available with Mr. Wittich furnishing E. C. Ebert's and George Roof's stores uptown.

MARITAL QUARREL
ENDS IN SHOOTING

COLUMBUS, Sept. 8.—Joseph Stolpa, 49, died in University Hospital here today from bullet wounds, said by police to have been self-inflicted after he shot and seriously wounded his wife, Emilie, 44, when she refused his overtures for a reconciliation.

Stolpa, who had been estranged from his wife, went to her home to effect a reconciliation but, according to the couple's eight-year-old son, Joseph, Jr., she slammed the door in her husband's face.

Enraged, Stolpa went to the side of the house and fired two shots through a window. One of the shots struck Mrs. Stolpa in the side. The other hit a high chair in the room.

The eight-year-old boy was in an adjoining room when the shooting took place.

STATISTICS REPORTED

Rev. Love, member of the rural life committee, reported Saturday on statistics of interest to the district. There are 186 churches in southeast Ohio, with 22,683 members. The average of persons-per-church is 122. Total salaries received is $90,062 with the average for each $1,211.

These figures are for the year 1932-33.

Good music has prevailed through the entire week with a minister's quartet receiving a lot of comment; Rev. T. C. Harper, baritone; Loren Peters, son of Rev. Peters of Logan, is first tenor; Lloyd Mignerey, Chillicothe, second tenor, and Rev. H. C. Elliott, Hallsville, basso. Peters is also a violinist of note and has played pleasingly at several sessions. A ladies' chorus directed by Mrs. Lulu Shields, of Pickerington, has also received many plaudits.

U. B. MINISTERS
TO FILL PULPITS

Two Circleville congregations will have the opportunity to hear leading ministers of the southeastern Ohio district of the United Brethren church, Sunday.

Rev. John A. Toy, pastor of the 5th-ave United Brethren church, Columbus, will occupy the pulpit of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and Rev. R. S. Parr, pastor of the Wellston church, will preach at the Presbyterian church.

Both will be morning services.

Thank You, Too!

The Ohio district convention of the American Lutheran church unanimously passed the following resolution at its closing sessions Friday:

"Be it resolved that we express our gratitude to the Circleville daily paper which was so liberal in granting much space in its daily edition to reports concerning our convention."

"We appreciate this courtesy and desire that it be known."

Protecting The President

THE kidnaping threat made against the president and his grandchildren is another reminder of the hazards faced by the head of the nation's government.
The man charged with having sent the threatening letter to the white house is said to be of an unsound mind. The very act itself seems to supply corroborative evidence of this.

In the criminal element of the United States are to be found men of shrewdness and resourcefulness. This has been demonstrated in the large number of kidnapings, robberies and other crimes successfully planned and executed. But none of the master minds in these, it is to be believed, would be bold enough to believe that the president of the United States could be kidnaped or that he could be intimidated into paying over a large sum through fear of this.

The president of the United States is, perhaps, the most closely guarded government official in the world. Because of the safeguards thrown around him, he has virtually no privacy. Similar precautions are taken to see that no harm comes to any member of his family.

Justification of these measures are to be found in the fact that three presidents have been assassinated and that Mr. Roosevelt himself was a target for an assassin. It is nearly impossible to give a president absolute security against the danger of bullets unless he should be prevented from making public appearances. The task of preventing him from being kidnaped is a much easier one. It is not likely that the bold and most resourceful of gang chiefs would regard kidnaping him as possible.

The danger to which a president almost daily is subjected, however, is a constant one. There are fanatics even in normal times who are ready to make today more prevalent than in many years, the danger the chief executive faces consequently is increased. There should be and will be no relaxation of effort to afford him every possible protection. The country can rest assured of this.

Strikes Are Costly

WHO pays the cost of strikes? The question is a pertinent one now, with a large part of the textile industry tied up by a walk-out.
The Minneapolis junior chamber of commerce has been compiling some figures that throw light on the situation. Its study was made on the basis of the recent strike in Minneapolis. Among the things it found were:
The striking truck drivers lost, in wages, $75,000.
Employers lost, through diminished business, $20,000,000.
Taxpayers had to settle a bill of $450,000 incurred as result of the calling out of the national guard.
Then there were inconvenience and trouble caused the general public, and incidental money costs to these that can not be figured or estimated with any degree of accuracy. Losses caused by property damage and many other items, impossible to determine, also would have to be counted in to get the correct total cost of the strike.

The costliness of industrial warfare alone should be enough to cause both capital and labor to make every possible effort to prevent such trouble. But this seems to be the least considered in connection with strikes.
Public opinion has shown that it can compel the settlement of strikes. Eventually it may reach the point where it will act to prevent walkouts.

"MA CINDERELLA" by Harold Bell Wright

CHAPTER XXIX.

"I sure am interested, Mr. Belden. Leastways, I be if your place is the sort of place I'm a-wantin'. I may's well tell you right now, though, we-uns ain't a-wantin' nothin' less'n the best what's to be had."

"Good!" ejaculated the lawyer. "I can assure you that this home is complete in every detail. It is distinctly a home of culture and refinement—a home of the best traditions. And, fortunately, it stands exactly as it was when the late occupant left it—the furnishings, the paintings and works of art, the library, the automobiles—even to the butler who has had the management of the establishment for years. The butler, you understand, has been held to look after things pending some disposition of the property. Everything is in readiness for immediate occupancy. The grounds, I should add, are ample and very beautiful. It is all a bit old-fashioned, perhaps, and the city has grown up around it, but, as I say, it is distinctly a home of culture, of good taste, fine traditions, and beauty. But why not drive out with me right now and inspect the property—see it for yourself? My car is waiting. It will require only a little time. Really," he smiled—"now that I know you as Judge Shannon's friends, I am anxious, for more than business reasons, to see you settled in this ideal home."

"Hit all sounds fine, Mr. Belden," Ann returned. "But—wal, sir, I war figgerin' on gittin' Nance an' me some clothes first thing. These we air a-wairins all right for whar we come from, but—" She finished with a laugh.

"Oh, you ladies!" cried the bachelor, gallily. "But think how much easier you'll do your shopping with your own automobile and chauffeur, Mrs. Haskel." He looked at John Herbert. "I am sure your son will agree with me that you will be infinitely more comfortable in the privacy of your own home with your own servants than you can possibly hope to be in this public place—particularly as the city, I understand, is new to you."

"I'm sure Mr. Belden is right, mother," said John Herbert. "It will take only an hour or two, and it seems to be exactly what we want."

"Really," added the lawyer, with his ready smile. "It would be an ideal time for you to entertain your friend, Judge Shannon, the first time he comes to the city."

Ann Haskel arose abruptly. "I reckon we may's well settle hit first as last. Git your bonnet, Nance." To Belden and her son she added: "I nance'd be scared plum to death if I war to leave her hyar alone." All during that ride in Mr. Belden's car from the hotel to the home in which he was trying to interest her, Ann Haskel was absorbed with thoughts which, apparently, she could not share with her companions. For the first time since leaving Wilderness Station the mountain woman took no interest in her surroundings. She was as indifferent to the roaring city which surged about them as if she had been born and reared in a crowded tenement district. Her son noticed his mother's mood and wondered uneasily. Could he have known the memories which had been aroused—the dead hopes which had been awakened—the banished dreams which had come again at the lawyer's smiling suggestion that she might entertain her friend, Judge Shannon—the last of the Haskels would have been astounded.

But when the automobile turned from the busy traffic of the street and stopped before tall, proudly designed iron gates in a high stone wall, the mountain woman awoke to her surroundings. She was as indifferent to the roaring city which surged about them as if she had been born and reared in a crowded tenement district. Her son noticed his mother's mood and wondered uneasily. Could he have known the memories which had been aroused—the dead hopes which had been awakened—the banished dreams which had come again at the lawyer's smiling suggestion that she might entertain her friend, Judge Shannon—the last of the Haskels would have been astounded.

When the inspection was over, the mountain woman, in her rude backwoods speech, expressed accurately the feeling of the place: "Hit's plum' easy to see that the folks what lived hyer war sure'nough quality. I've allus sort of knowed that'd be houses like this fer the right sort of folks to live in. But I sure never 'lowed I'd git a chance to see one of 'em with my own eyes."

Then she said what lawyer Belden considered a beautiful tribute to her son: "Hit sure fits you, Herb. Seems like hit war jest matchally made fer you. Do you reckon you could make out to do your writin' hyer?"

There was no need for John Herbert to put his answer into words.

One of the scenes is taken in the Chinatown telephone exchange in San Francisco, where all the operators are native girls in Chinese dress, each of whom speaks both Chinese and English with equal fluency.
The story combines side-splitting comedy, double-barreled romance and exciting adventure, all centered around two "trouble shooters," the official title for the

Ann, thrilling to the touch of her boy's hand, whispered, with full understanding, "Hit's jest like that fair place I done read about once, whar the princess and every-thing war asleep, waitin' fer the prince to come along an' wake 'em all up with a kiss." Which, we must allow, was a remarkable observation to come from a woman of Ann Haskel's general reputation.
Nance Jordan drew a long breath. "Smell the trees an' grass an' every-thing! Hit's jest like 'is at home, ain't hit? Only prettier up a mile more. I'd sure like to walk on that grass an' feel hit under my feet—if a body dast."

They were met at the door by a grave-faced elderly man who bore himself with a fine air of mingled authority and deference, and who greeted Mr. Belden with restrained friendliness.

With a quiet little laugh, Ann turned to the lawyer: "I'll buy hit, Mr. Belden, jest as hit stands. How much?"

"This is Wilson, the butler of whom I told you, Mrs. Haskel," said the lawyer. "Wilson, this is Mrs. Haskel and her son Mr. John Herbert, and Miss Jordan. Is everything in order for Mrs. Haskel to inspect the place, Wilson?"

"Right, sir. This way, if you please, madam."

From room to room they followed Wilson silently. In describing that home the lawyer had not exaggerated. Several generations of true culture had contributed to its charm and beauty. There was not a false note anywhere. There was not the faintest touch of vulgar display. Wealth was evidenced on every hand, it is true, but never for itself.

John Herbert was delighted beyond expression. Nance crept on tiptoe, with frequent glances over her shoulder as if fearful of being pounced upon and dragged off to prison for being "whar sich as we uns ain't got no right to be." Ann Haskel was as one walking in a dream. Now and then she crowded close to her son's side and put a questioning hand on his arm, as if she needed to reassure herself by his presence.

When the inspection was over, the mountain woman, in her rude backwoods speech, expressed accurately the feeling of the place: "Hit's plum' easy to see that the folks what lived hyer war sure'nough quality. I've allus sort of knowed that'd be houses like this fer the right sort of folks to live in. But I sure never 'lowed I'd git a chance to see one of 'em with my own eyes."

With a quiet little laugh Ann turned to the lawyer: "I'll buy hit, Mr. Belden, jest as hit stands. How much?"
Mr. Belden was slightly disconcerted. "I fear you misunderstood me, Mrs. Haskel. The place is not for sale—that is, not at present; later, perhaps—well—it all depends upon certain developments. I am to lease it because, as you can readily understand, it would be much better for the place to have it occupied by good reliable, appreciative people.
"When can we move in?"
Mr. Belden turned to the butler. "How about servants, Wilson?"

Ann looked at her son and her dark eyes were fairly dancing with delight. "I reckon me an' Herb could stand hit," she drawled. "But mebbe Nance'd rather go back to the hotel."

"Now, Ann Haskel," whined Nance, "you know good an' well what I'm a-wantin'. You ain't got no call to make fun of me jest 'cause we uns air in the city. You didn't never used to do hit back home."

When Mr. Belden was leaving he said: "I'm sure you will find Wilson invaluable, Mrs. Haskel. He has been in charge here for years. You can trust him to manage everything for you perfectly. I suggest that you advise with him freely. I imagine he can even tell you about the proper dressmakers. He is wise, experienced in all the ways of his former employers, and he never betrayed a confidence in all his life. As for myself, please feel free to call upon me at any time. I shall be most happy to serve you."

As the mountain woman and her son stood on the veranda, watching the lawyer's automobile down the drive, Ann said, in an awed half-whisper: "Hit's all jest like the story, ain't hit, Herb?"

"What story, mother? What do you mean?"

"You know," she answered—"the fairy godmother, the chariot, the palace—hit's jest like thar war somebody a-magin' hit all fer poor old Ma Cinderella." She laughed with a little catch in her voice. "I'm sure hopin' hit don't all vanish clean away come midnight. I'd hate to wake up a-sittin' in the cinders back home an' find all this war jest nothin' but another dream."

THAT in fairness and justice to the home city, every citizen should patronize the home merchants.
Some salespeople should cultivate a more courteous and friendly manner towards customers. It helps to sell merchandise and helps the salespeople to keep their jobs.
People expect courteous treatment. If they don't get it, they trade where they do get it or buy from mail order houses.
For some years the newspapers of the smaller towns and cities have been fighting the mail order houses and, in most instances, fighting them without assistance. If the merchants really wish to keep home business in the home city, they should co-operate with local newspapers.

The best way to do this is to advertise their goods in the home papers.

The So-Called "Barber's Itch" Highly Contagious

"Impetigo Contagiosa" Is Medical Term for This Disease; How to Treat It

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

RECENTLY I received a letter from a worried young man. An infection of his face alarmed him by the severity of the symptoms. He referred to the trouble as "barber's itch" and asked whether the disease is "catching," and if it takes long to cure.

Barber's itch, as the layman calls it, is an infectious disease attacking the bearded region of the face. Medically, it is known as "impetigo contagiosa." "Sycoosis" is another name for it.

The disease is highly contagious. It can readily be seen how the infection might be spread in a barber shop, not in the usual clean one, but in a place where inadequate hygienic measures are observed.

How to Treat it
The disease is characterized by small blisters which arise from the skin. These blisters soon break, discharge pus and leave a thin crust. This seems to stick on the skin, with the edges slightly turned up.

Since the disease is highly infectious and rapidly spreads from one portion of the skin to another, it is essential that prompt and proper treatment be given. It is important that shaving be omitted during the course of the disease. The hair may be clipped, but a razor should not be used.

A good plan is to cleanse the healthy part of the face first and treat the infected area last. Make sure that the hands, towels and scissors are carefully cleaned after touching the infected sores.
Antiseptic ointments, such as an ointment of ammoniated mercury, can be applied to the infected blisters. In the more stubborn cases a 2 per cent solution of silver nitrate may

BROWN-INGALLS PEACE PLEASES OHIO REPUBLICAN PARTY

LIQUOR MONOPOLY BRINGS QUESTION

COLUMBUS, Sept. 8.—Intra-party harmony was the goal of the Republican party at its biennial state convention here and in the opinion of most party leaders today, the desired result was obtained.

There was unqualified rejoicing among party leaders at the apparent reconciliation between the G. O. P. gubernatorial nominee, Clarence J. Brown, and his former foe, David S. Ingalls, the party nominee two years ago.

Ingalls shook Brown's hand in the presence of the 414 convention delegates and pledged his unqualified support in the November campaign against Martin L. Davey, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

ENDS BITTER FEELING

In 1928, Ingalls, entering the primary campaign late, nosed out Brown with the result that there was much bitter feeling between the two camps, some of the Ingalls protagonists even going so far as to accuse Brown of aiding in the election of Gov. George White, a Democrat.

Now, however, the old rupture of two years ago seems to have healed and the Ingalls wing is whooping it up for Brown. Former State Sen. George Bender, Republican candidate for congress-at-large, assured the G. O. P. convention that Republicans of Cuyahoga county, home of two of Brown's primary opponents this year, Daniel E. Morgan and John A. Elden, as well as Ingalls, would line up solidly behind the nominee on Nov. 6.

At Democratic headquarters the platform adopted by the Republicans was criticized for "failure to take a positive stand" on such matters as taxation, education and liquor control, but its authors de-

Roosevelt Textile Strike Board

contain the specific promise to relieve the highway department of jurisdiction over the state highway patrol and the sale of auto license tags.

Some sources purported to have information that Brown, if elected, is looking forward to establishing a state department of public safety, which would operate the highway patrol.

Hiram Johnson in his campaign for senator from California is claiming the support of Republicans, Democrats and Progressives. No wonder the senator is keeping quiet on issues concerning which formerly he never hesitated to express his views.

Japan's Denunciation of Naval Treaties to Start Arms Race

WASHINGTON — Confidential reports reaching naval and military circles indicate that Japan will denounce the Washington and London Naval Treaties in late November. This means that the arms race is on in full force. In preparation, the Navy already has made some surveys of Guam, Midway and other Pacific Islands as air bases. They make natural stepping stones to the Philippines.

Mrs. Nye, wife of the youthful Senator from North Dakota, keeps a watchful eye on her husband. During the Munitions Investigation she noticed that he had run out of cigarettes. She passed up a cigarette case, later sent out for a fresh package.

The hard of the Munitions Investigation Committee was forced by lack of funds. It had not intended staging its first session until next Spring. However, the Senate Budget Committee was

Textile Strike

No strike in history has had such an efficient publicity office as textile strike headquarters in Washington. It has forced the textile employers to hire Bill Lawson away from the NRA publicity bureau at a fat salary. . . . It is a fact that old line A. F. of L. leaders were vigorously opposed to the textile strike. They were afraid they could not hold their workers in line. The issue was forced by the rank and file. Up until near the strike's zero hour, textile employers thought labor was bluffing. Also the employers were strengthened by the fact that a large textile surplus was on hand. They had been asking the NRA for a short shutdown in order to clear up reserves. The strike is giving it to them. . . . Privately, members of the National Labor Board express surprise that so many workers have struck. They estimate the walk-out at fifty per cent, believe this will increase. Reason for the expected increase is the fact that skilled machinists have struck. Upon them, unskilled labor is largely dependent.

Security

Joe Kennedy, hard-working chairman of the Securities Commission and ex-Wall Street speculator, is turning out to be harder on speculators than some of the Commission's much-vaunted Liberals. . . . Joe, who has made considerable jack in his day, says he would rather have less but be sure that at least some was left for his kids. He has nine. . . . Ex-Senator Hiram Bingham, now President of the National Aeronautics Association, is angling for a toehold that will put him back into national politics. Back in 1926, Bingham was Governor of Connecticut for one day, having been elected Senator before he was inducted as Governor. Senator Hugh Black, chairman of the ocean and airmail investigating committee, has told Postmaster General J. M. Farley privately that the Government could deduct $15,000,000 from the $28,000,000 it is now paying annually on ocean mail contracts without the slightest impairment of service. Under a recent Presidential order the Post Office Department is making a searching study of ocean mail contracts, preparatory to a complete overhauling of the system.

House-Cleaning

The Home Owners Loan Corporation is conducting a quiet house-cleaning among its state managers. In eight states—Maine, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, California, Indiana, Michigan, and North Carolina—changes already have been made. Inside word is that others are in the making. . . . Theodore G. Bilbo, former AAA newspaper clipper, up for run-off in the Mississippi Senatorial primary, is not easily fazed. Years ago, while running for office after a trial for embezzlement, he went up and down the state saying: "The prosecutor said I was guilty, some of the witnesses said I was guilty; but the jury, the boys and girls, said I was innocent." He was elected. . . . When the Post Office Department moved out of its old castellated building, the AAA sent in its overflow crop control administration, but found the elevators so decrepit that it had to spend $60,000 to install new ones. The biggest stumbling block the new Housing Administration has so far encountered is trying to justify the 9.72 per cent interest being charged for loans. Numerous and ingenious explanations have been devised, but some owners who have to pay the money refuse to be soothed. . . . Representative Robert Luce, leading Congressional authority on parliamentary procedure, is having the light of his life to retain his Massachusetts seat. The Democrats are concentrating a heavy fire on him because of his strong opposition to Administration policies. . . . Democratic sharpshooters are digging up the campaign speeches of Al Smith and former Governor Nathan Miller of New York, now fellow "Founding Fathers" of the new American Liberty League. The two men fought two bitter gubernatorial contests against one another in the early '20s. (Copyright, 1934, by United Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Cleveland Buys Wright, Slugger

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8.—Announcement was made here today that Abby Wright, big right hander, has been purchased from Minneapolis by the Indians and will report for duty next spring. Wright is expected to be assigned the right field patrol where the need of a slugging gardner has been emphasized for a long while.

Wright, tall and brawny, is hitting .360 in the American association and is leading the loop in the number of hits.

The Indians also have their eyes on Vernon Washington, clouting right fielder of the Indianapolis team.

Wright is the second star to go to a big league in recent weeks, the New York Giants having signed Bill Myers, of Columbus. Rip Radcliff of Louisville is due for another trial with the Chicago White Sox while Marty Hopkins, of St. Paul, is now playing third base for the same team. A number of other AA stars are expected to graduate.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 8.—With the twin-bill yesterday a split decision, the second-place Columbus Red Birds and the Louisville Colonels were to cross their bats again here tonight.

Ward Cross, Columbus relief pitcher, saved the first game for the Red Birds who breezed through to a 5 to 2 victory but when called

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

SOME PROGRESS IS BEING made in the Pickaway Country club golf tournament, with more expected during the next week. The weather has not been so satisfactory thus far few matches have been played—Several contestants, too, have been out of the city—

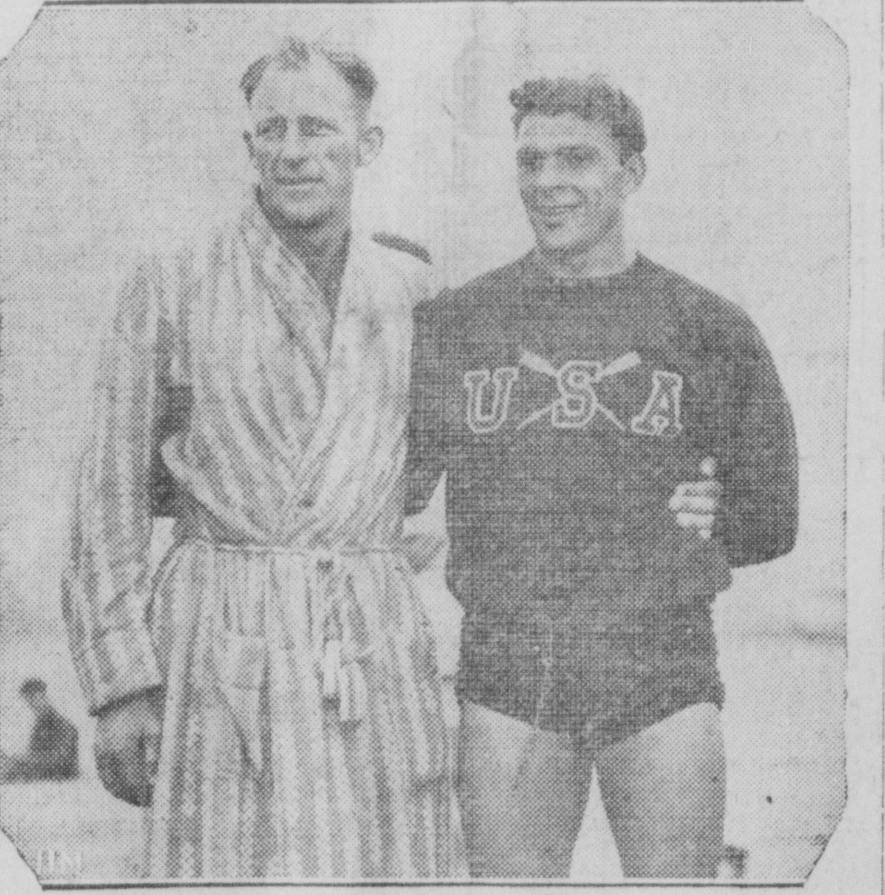

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—The Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphia Nats were to meet in a double-header here this afternoon after rain washed out their scheduled tilt yesterday.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 8.—With their tilt yesterday rained out, the Indianapolis Braves and the Toledo Mud Hens were to meet in a night encounter tonight.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—The Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphia Nats were to meet in a double-header here this afternoon after rain washed out their scheduled tilt yesterday.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 8.—With their tilt yesterday rained out, the Indianapolis Braves and the Toledo Mud Hens were to meet in a night encounter tonight.

Canadian New Sculling Champ

Bob Pearce of Canada, left, is pictured with his rival, Bill Miller of the United States, after winning the three-mile sculling race for the professional championship of the world at Toronto. Pearce won handily from his American rival.

TITLE MATCH IS AGAIN POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—In line with our daily communing on the subject, we wish to announce that the banns between James McLarnin and Barney Ross, nee Rosofsky, are now being published for the third and last time. The ceremony seems, it is to take place tonight—provided, of course, that it does not rain. It was to have taken place on Thursday night, with upward of 40,000 witnesses quite prepared to be agog and agape about it all. But it rained.

It rained again last night. It was still raining at six o'clock this morning.

If it continues to rain upon this second episode of the serial for the welterweight championship of the world, our course will be clear. We'll go out there to Pago-Pago, the land of Sadie Thompson and eternal rainfall, and finish it in bathing suits. There remained, however, an alternative in case of rain tonight. The fight could and probably would be postponed until next Wednesday, by which time I'm afraid that the principals will not be prepared to do themselves justice. They'll be all tired out from resting.

MADISON HORSES WIN IN INDIANA

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Madison-colt draft horses, winners of many ribbons at the Ohio State Fair, upheld the honor of the state's horse-flesh at the Indiana State Fair at Indianapolis by taking many blue ribbons, according to word received here today.

Martin Elliott's five-months-old Percheron filly colt, who was the sensation at the Ohio fair, swept aside all competition at Indianapolis, winning in all classes in which it showed. The colt, sired by the noted Lafayette, established a record at Columbus of being the first colt in the history of the show that went from the filly class to the champion bred and owned in Ohio.

Lafayette, owned by Cecil Reed, of London, took the first award at Indianapolis in the aged Percheron stallion class, marking the 17th time it has won such honors.

LOU BROUILLARD NEAR TITLE BOUT

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Lou Brouillard, Worcester, Mass., moved nearer a second middleweight championship bout today with his technical knockout victory over Solly Dukelsky of Chicago.

The Worcester southpaw, former welterweight and middleweight champion, said he would challenge the winner of the Teddy Yarusz-Vince Dundee bout at Pittsburgh Monday.

Brouillard was awarded a technical knockout after 44 seconds of fighting in the seventh round last night at Mills stadium. Until the seventh Dukelsky was able to weather the two-fisted attack of the ex-champion. But Brouillard opened the round with a stunning left hook that jarred Dukelsky to the heels and followed it with a severe two handed pummeling to the body and head. Dukelsky was so stunned Referee Tommy Thomas called a halt to the proceedings.

Scientists are people who discover new reasons for doing things that common sense prompted old-timers to do.

"THAT LITTLE GAME" --- The Crook Grows

TOM, I PULLED A RICH ONE ON THE GANG LAST NIGHT! I SAT ON JIM'S RIGHT, HE DEALT AND ONLY GAVE ME FOUR CARDS, I DIDN'T NOTICE IT UNTIL IT WAS TOO LATE, SO I DIDN'T SAY NOthin'.— THEY ALL PASSED AROUND TO ME AND I OPENED STRONG WITH A PAIR OF JACKS, FOUR OF THE BIRDS STAYED AND I STOOD PAT AND KICKED THE POT FOR THE LIMIT, THEN THEY ALL "DITCHED" BUT HARRY, HE BOOSTED A LITTLE AND I HIRED 'ER UP AGAIN.— HE MUSTA FORGOT I WAS PAT, 'CAUSE HE SAID "SAY, YOU STOOD PAT, DIDN'T YOU?" AND I SAID "YOU BET I DID, HARRY".— SO HE THREW DOWN HIS MITT, I SHOWED MY "BREAKERS", SLID MY FOUR CARDS INTO THE DISSY AND WON WITH A "DEAD HAND"— HAW—HAW—

YOU KNOW WHAT I'VE ALWAYS SAID, MAS.— YOU HAVE MORE LUCK THAN BRAINS.

STEAMER BURNS AT SEA, MANY PERISH

Did You Know

By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT the Whigs exerted strong influence in politics in Circleville and Pickaway-co 80 years ago. At that time the organization was able to elect an entire township and corporation ticket. Interesting were the attacks made back and forth in the two newspapers of the time, The Circleville Herald, which supported the Whigs, and The Circleville Watchman, an out and out Democratic paper. An amusing editorial boosting the Whigs' cause, appearing in The Herald of April 18, 1850, in part, follows:

"The Whigs have elected the entire township and corporation ticket, time after time and can do it again! All we want is spunk! We have a wary, artful opponent to contend with. His mode of warfare does not consist of so much strength in numbers as it does in tactics. His manner of engagement is not to attack on the open field, in daylight, but to lie in ambush, to sneak, coax, beguile and chaffer with his 'game' until a sneakish charm is thrown around it, and then should he be successful, he mounts his roost and crows after this fashion: 'The entire Democratic ticket elected!' Hold him, old rooster!—Never fear, I've got him! Whiggery's usual weapons, falsehood, cunningness and knavery were exposed by their victims, but they wouldn't do."

Jonathan Renick, Jacob Taylor, Alfred Luddington, Acker King and John Boyer were on the Whig committee to promote a thorough organization of the party forces in the county. The candidates at the election in 1850, at which the Whigs scored a complete victory, were: Mayor, John Boyer; Councilmen, R. H. Wilson, F. Robinson, T. C. Jones and Acker King; Democrats, Mayor, C. M. Foreman; Councilmen, William Donnan, George Hammill, A. G. Richwine and Wayne Griswold.

The voting places were located in George Hammill's shop; Jonathan Renick's office; John Hedges' shop and Dr. Blake's office.

And more amusing editorial comment from the columns of The Herald after the Whig victory:

"The noble-hearted Whigs of Circleville most faithfully did their duty Monday last. That same old sick chicken never put forth greater exertions to defeat us than they did on that occasion. Our opponents were sure of success. They boasted of having every voter's name down and advertised their majority in each ward. The Whigs are not dead yet!"

That on June 7, 1850, three local residents captured what is believed to have been the largest fish ever taken from the Scioto river. It was a giant cat and measured four feet, three inches in length. It was also two feet, two inches in circumference and across the mouth it measured seven inches. The cat's gross weight was 46½ pounds.

That Circleville's first public school opened 80 years ago this fall. John Lynch was the first superintendent. Classes began on Nov. 22, 1852. Eight hundred pupils enrolled in the school during the first week of its opening. Not only did this first Circleville educational institution maintain a first class high school, but also, according to newspapers of the time, "the arrangements are such that scholars can receive a thorough collegiate education after having finished their preparatory studies should they desire to do so."

1,700 PUPILS ARE READY TO RESUME WORK

School Bells to Ring Monday Morning; Length of Term Uncertain

SCHEDULE LISTED

Pumpkin Show Parade Expected to be Talked

School bells will sound the death knell for vacation days Monday as 1,700 students pick up their books and other supplies to return to the Circleville classrooms for another study period, the length of which is unknown at present.

Supt. E. L. Daley said Saturday that preparations have been made for the doors of the five school buildings in the city to swing open at 8:30 a. m. for a half-day session, with classes to start full time Tuesday morning.

Confronted with the largest registration in the history of Circleville high school, Principal E. L. Gephart said his office staff have been working studiously for a month in an attempt to complete arrangements for the opening of the term. Saturday morning a total of 393 pupils had been registered at the high school, an increase of 13 over last year with a probability of more next week.

CAN SEAT 419
Principal Gephart said Saturday that 419 students can be seated in the high school building if necessary.

The first day enrollment in the city's schools last year was 1,658, representing 1,295 grade pupils and 363 high school students.

The opening day's program in the elementary schools is: Buildings open at 8:30 a. m., followed by registrations and filing of registration sheets with teachers. Instructors will also furnish information relative to the textbooks to be used and after making assignments for the next day, classes will be dismissed. All elementary principals will report their enrollment by grades to the office of Supt. Daley by 10 a. m.

Principal Gephart has worked out the following schedule for opening day in the high school: All teachers of the high school will meet with him at 7:30 a. m. when all matters relative to opening will be discussed. The high school doors will open at 8:30 a. m. with pupils reporting to the auditorium where new teachers

Court News

JONES DIVORCE

Judge W. J. Jones, of McArthur, sitting in place of Judge J. W. Adkins, Saturday, granted a divorce to Mrs. Barbara Jones, W. Mount-st. from Dr. Lloyd Jones, W. Main-st.

The suit was not contested and was brought by the plaintiff on grounds of gross neglect of duty.

Mrs. Jones was granted the custody of two minor children, Lloyd Jr., and Nelson, and also given $25 per month for their support.

Charles Gerhardt represented Mrs. Jones and Richard Simkins was attorney for the defendant.

LOSES CASE

A jury in Judge J. W. Adkins' common pleas court Friday returned a verdict for the defendant in the case of Aubrey Lemley, S. Pickaway-st., against the Industrial Commission of Ohio.

Mrs. Lemley asked settlement of a claim against the commission. On the day previous, a jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the case of George King, Williamsport marshall, against the commission.

Liberties Union Asks Conviction of Police Who Molest Strikers

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Reports of continued violence in the textile strike drew from the Civil Liberties Union today the announcement of a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of police, sheriffs, hired guards or other officials for criminal acts committed against the striking workers. The offer was issued under the signature of Harry F. Ward, chairman.

DAY REPORTS STATE FUNDS

August Shows Gain in General Fund to Five and One-half Millions.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 8.—At the end of August there was a balance of $5,762,092.14 in the Ohio general revenue fund, as compared with $3,900,351.01 on July 31, State Treasurer Harry S. Day's monthly report disclosed today.

August receipts by the general revenue fund amounted to $4,118,591.74, while expenditures reached $2,256,850.61.

A sharp decline in the balance of the state educational equalization fund, from which comes state aid to weak school districts, was reported. From $661,217.57 on July 31, it fell to $370,598.44 on Aug. 31. Disbursements from this fund during August totaled $883,383.92.

Transfer of $887,907.13 from the gas tax fund to the public school fund in August helped increase the latter's month end balance to $2,128,114.43.

August receipts of the liquor control rotary fund amounted to $1,245,062.08, but disbursements also were high, $1,118,240.26, leaving the balance in this fund at the end of August at $468,741.08.

The workmen's compensation fund's reserve increased last month from $37,417,616.91 to $37,799,729.54, notwithstanding disbursements of $1,066,804.03 for the same period.

TRIAL BOOKED FOR SEPT. 24

Selak, Pluzdrak Face Murder Charges; Both Have Entered Denials.

BUFFALO, Sept. 8.—Supreme Court Justice Norton announced today that trials of Bruno "Brownie" Selak and Stanley Pluzdrak will start in his court Sept. 24.

Selak and Pluzdrak, Polish youths, are charged with the first degree murder of Police Lieutenant George L. Uhl. Selak is said to be the actual gunman. The youths are also charged with abduction and armed robbery, all taking place in a five day crime wave.

Justice Norton said he would hear motions of newly-appointed defense counsel for any possible delays on Sept. 17.

Both youths have pleaded not guilty to indictments charging murder.

According to a report filed by Police officers Raymond Smith and Alva Shastien, Harold Goldsberry, S. Scioto-st., said that George Russell, flagman on the train, warned Stout to stop his car.

The front end of the Ford was damaged.

PLAN STYLE REVUE HERE

To Be Held at Cliftona Theatre September 13-14; More Details Later.

Preliminary plans were completed this morning for the staging of Circleville's "Fall Style Revue" at the Cliftona Theatre Thursday and Friday evenings, September 13 and 14.

This event, the first of its kind in the city for several years, has been made possible through the cooperation of leading business firms, the Cliftona Theatre and the Herald.

Charming members of Circleville's social contingent will make up the cast of the Revue and each will represent one of the business firms co-operating. These have already been chosen and are young women whose personalities are well known among the younger social group.

The extravaganza will be directed by Miss Mary Pickens and promises to be enthusiastically received in Circleville.

Watch the Herald for other announcements concerning the coming Style Revue.

REPORT ON COUNTY BUSES INSTRUCTS MANY CORRECTIONS

Recent inspection of 79 school buses in Pickaway-co, made by the state highway patrol in cooperation with the state department of education showed 10 vehicles unsafe to operate and 13 school bus drivers operating without chauffeurs' licenses.

Col. Lynn Black, patrol superintendent, also reports that 47 corrections for lights, 6 for entrances, 42 for emergency exits, 24 for "School Bus" lettering, 7 for commercial marking, 7 for tires, 3 for rear-view mirrors, 5 for cushions, 26 for windshield wipers, 43 for heaters, 56 for fire-extinguishers, 14 for sanitary conditions, 12 for foot brakes, 29 for emergency brakes, 8 for signal devices, 3 for transmissions and 3 for steering apparatus were recommended by the highway patrol inspectors.

Thirty of the vehicles showed overloading, while 32 were operating without property damage insurance and 20 without liability insurance.

ASSIGNMENTS TO CLOSE U. B. SESSION HERE

Report to be Made at Sunday Service; Dr. Clippinger in Pulpit

OFFICERS ELECTED

Harper, Neuding Named To Important Posts

Sessions of what is reported "one of the finest district conferences in many years" were continuing today as United Brethren ministers and lay delegates prepared to depart for their homes after Sunday morning church services. Stations for the next year will be announced at that time.

Important reports including the place of next year's conference, policy committee by Rev. J. A. Toy and resolutions committee by Rev. E. S. Wilson, and others were scheduled this afternoon. Saturday evening's service will include a discussion of evangelism with Rev. R. S. Parr, Rev. A. Ward Clutch and Rev. P. E. Wright handling different angles of the question.

BISHOP TO PREACH

Sunday morning's services, expected to be attended by an overflow crowd, will be headed by Bishop A. R. Clippinger whose subject will be "Finding the Right Way." An impressive musical program has also been arranged for the Sunday morning closing service.

The following persons will be ordained by Bishop Clippinger at the Sunday service: A. N. Gruesser, Harrisburg; C. W. Bremer of Portsmouth and E. W. Seymour of Westerville, formerly of this city, as elders, Mrs. Helen Shonkwiller, Dayton, and Mrs. J. W. Sprecher, Westerville, will be consecrated as deaconesses.

The results of the election of officers was announced on the floor of the conference Saturday morning.

Rev. T. C. Harper, pastor of the local church, was named on several important groups including board of christian education, replacing H. O. Thompson; as a trustee of the Otterbein home, and as president of the Minister's Mutual Relief association. Other officers of the relief association are H. O. Davis, Bremen, and E. B. White.

NEUDING RE-NAMED

E. S. Neuding, E. Main-st., member of the local church, was re-elected conference treasurer, a position he has efficiently filled for several years.

Other officers announced include: W. E. Reibel, Columbus, recording secretary; J. R. Bowser, Westerville, statistical secretary; S. R. Shaw, Westerville, treasurer; student aid fund; E. B. White, Oak Hill; D. S. Mills, Columbus; P. E. Wright, Lancaster; C. M. Bowman, Portsmouth, and Rev. Harper, board of christian education; H. O. Elliott, Hallsville; L.

Renick Dunlap Sponsoring "Round Up" At His Home Next Thursday.

Renick W. Dunlap, Republican candidate for congress from the 11th Ohio district, announced Saturday that Clarence J. Brown, nominee for governor, and John W. Bricker, nominee for attorney general, will speak at his O'ango farm, Pickaway-twp., next Thursday when a "Round Up" is scheduled.

The meeting begins at 2:30 p. m. with all central and executive committee members and women and candidates of the 11th district invited to attend.

The program from 2:30 p. m. to 5 is termed "to get better acquainted with our affairs."

A similar meeting was held at Mr. Dunlap's two years ago and drew a large crowd of Republicans not only from the district but from other parts of Ohio.

DR. SCHUH, AGED LUTHERAN, DEAD

Uncle of Late Mrs. Troutman Succumbs Near Sidney; Funeral Monday.

SIDNEY, Sept. 8.—Prominent Lutheran leaders were to journey to Anna, near here, Monday for the funeral services for Dr. H. J. Schuh, 87, veteran Lutheran church dignitary.

Dr. Schuh, who helped found children's homes at Mars, Pa., and Richmond, Ind., died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Grover Fogt, at Anna.

Dr. Emanuel Poppen, Columbus, president of the Ohio Lutheran synod, will attend the funeral as well as other church notables, it was announced.

Surviving Dr. Schuh are four daughters and three sons. The latter include Rev. Fred O. Schuh, of Pittsburgh, and Rev. Edgar Schuh, of Ashland, O., members of the Lutheran ministry.

Dr. Schuh was an uncle of the late Mrs. G. J. Troutman. He had filled the local pulpit a number of times and was well known to members of the congregation.

Dr. G. J. Troutman, Rev. and Mrs. George Troutman and Gladys Troutman will attend the funeral.

NEARLY 375 FEARED DEAD; MANY RESCUED

Vacation Liner, Morro Castle, Destroyed as Flames of Uncertain Origin Break Out Early Saturday off New Jersey Shore; Ship Bound to New York From Havana.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—An appalling number of persons—possibly as many as 375—lost their lives in a holocaust of flame today when fire destroyed the Ward liner Morro Castle off the New Jersey Coast.

The 11,000 ton liner went up in a roar of flame as awful in its suddenness and violent destruction as any submarine torpedo that struck in the war days when such disasters were almost commonplace.

When the ghostly light of a rain-drenched day illuminated the scene of disaster hours after the tragedy, the cause of the fire was still obscure. Some passengers expressed belief the 11,000 ton liner, returning to New York from Havana and due to dock this morning, might have been struck by lightning in a terrific storm which roared north of Cape Hatteras after midnight.

MANY DRIFT ASHORE

During the morning, bodies began to be washed ashore along the beach in the vicinity of Asbury Park and Allentown.

Be-use of their number, every undertaker in Monmouth-co was drafted into service. Most of the bodies were half-burned. Whether

LOSS $3,000,000

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The liner Morro Castle was insured for $2,500,000, according to information here.

In addition, a special loss insurance was carried. It was believed Lloyds, which handled the insurance, stands to lose about $3,000,000 by the tragedy.

the victims had met death from fire or drowning could not be learned from cursory examination.

At this time, the skeleton of the liner was visible from shore, drifting aimlessly toward the mainland, deserted by all.

When the Morro Castle sailed out of Havana harbor Wednesday evening, steaming beneath the ancient fortress for which she was named, she carried 318 passengers and a crew of 240.

Most of the passengers were on the return leg of a round trip journey from New York, but the original complement had been swelled by an additional 60 who

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A note of ironic tragedy was injected into the destruction of the liner Morro Castle today when a report was received that Capt. Robert Willmott, master of the vessel, had died of illness shortly before lighting struck and fired the ship.

bought passages from Havana for the disastrous northern journey. This list included 35 Americans. The remainder of the 60 were Cubans and other foreigners.

Against these figures, officials of the line tallied the survivors brought in on lifeboats and aboard rescue ships.

At 9:30 this morning, the roster of known rescued stood as follows:

STOTLER-KELLSTADT NUPTIALS READ TODAY

Miss Pryor Stotler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stotler, of the Columbus-pk, was married Saturday morning, Sept. 8, at 11:30 o'clock at the home of her parents, to Mr. John J. Kellstadt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton B. Kellstadt, N. Court-st.

Miss Mary Louis Kuhn, of Ashville, and Mr. George Colville, of this city, were attendants.

The bride's gown was of white satin and with it she wore a short veil. Her flowers were white roses. Her maid of honor wore pink satin and carried pink roses.

An informal reception for the immediate families and close friends was held after the double ring ceremony at which the Rev. Alvin Drewes, pastor of the Lithopolis Lutheran church, officiated.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Glenn Hay sang, "Oh, Promise Me," accompanied by Miss Betty Killelea of Columbus.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Kellstadt will be at home at the residence of the bride's parents.

GARDEN CLUB ENTERTAINS KINGSTON CLUB FRIDAY

Members of the Kingston Garden club were guests of the Pickaway-co Garden club, Friday evening, when the latter held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Orton King, W. High-st.

Approximately thirty enjoyed talks given by Edwin Haacker and Leslie Pontus. Mr. Haacker told the best methods for planting bulbs and Mr. Pontus spoke on terrariums.

During a short business meeting the local club decided to not hold a flower show this fall.

Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

The next session will be held Oct. 12.

BIBLE CLASS MEETS WITH MRS. COLVILL

The Women's Bible class of the Presbyterian church met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. H. Colvill, W. Franklin-st.

The class members sewed for families on relief and several readings were given.

It was decided to not have a meeting in October.

M. E. BIBLE CLASS HAS SOCIAL SESSION

The Young Ladies' Bible class of the Methodist Episcopal church held its monthly social session, Friday evening, in the church basement with eighteen members present.

A short business meeting preceded the social hour during which games were enjoyed. Refreshments were served later in the evening by the September committee comprised of Mrs. Evan Boggs, chairman, Mrs. Walter Stout, Mrs. Ralph Leach, Mrs. George Fissell, Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer and Mrs. O. J. Towers.

OFFICERS ELECTED AT LADIES' AID MEETING

Officers were elected at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Church of the Brethren held Thursday evening at the church. Mrs. Emma Essick was named president; Mrs. Eunice Sterling, secretary; and Mrs. Mary Stein, treasurer.

The society will meet again Tuesday evening at 7:30. Officers will be elected for the church.

Misses Norma Ross and Sydney Trimble returned Friday from a trip to California, visiting en route the Grand Canyon, Yosemite National park and the Century of Progress. They stayed two months in Los Angeles and visited many points of interest including Catalina Island, San Francisco, San Diego and Mexico.

Mrs. Don J. White, Mrs. Ellen Root, Donald Olen White, this city, and Verl V. Cassidy, of Cincinnati, returned Friday after spending several days in Chicago, visiting the World's Fair. Mr. Cassidy returned to Cincinnati Saturday.

Miss Mary Crist, N. Court-st., will be a week-end guest of Misses Helen and Evelyn Brigel of Columbus.

Mrs. Mary G. Morris and daughter, Betty, have returned from a two weeks' motoring trip through the East.

Landed in lifeboats at points along the New Jersey coast: Between 75 and 80.

Picked up by the liner Monarch of Bermuda, sister ship of the Morro Castle: 65.

Rescued by the S. S. Andrew Luckenbach: 22.

Brought into quarantine by the liner President Cleveland of the Dollar line: An undetermined number of the crew.

How many of those rescued by the Monarch of Bermuda and landed safely from lifeboats after a perilous journey through heavy seas were passengers and could not be ascertained immediately.

But even with these rescues, there remained a huge gap between the known survivors and the number known to have been aboard the Morro Castle when some malignant fury brought about her end.

Grave fears were felt the disaster might even eclipse that of the liner Vestris, which sank off the Virginia Capes in 1928 with a death-toll of 110 and furnished the annals of shipping on the American side of the Atlantic with one of its worst catastrophes.

The unbelievable swiftness of the disaster, paralleled by few in the history of marine tragedies, undoubtedly contributed to the heavy toll of dead.

It was at 3:15 a. m. when the radio operator sent the first message crackling through the ether to advise the world that his mammoth ship was in difficulties. It asked all wireless stations to "stand by for emergencies."

S. O. S. AT 4:25 A. M.

At 4:25 a. m. S. O. S. was sent, advising the ship's position as 20 miles south of Scotland lights.

Then came the one which revealed the full terrible truth: "Can't work much longer. Fire directly under radio room."

Between the time of the first distress signal and the hour when the liner, a blazing inferno, was abandoned, scenes of indescribable horror were enacted above and below her polished decks.

One sailor who reached shore in a lifeboat told how the passengers were sleeping when the fire broke out; how flames sweeping the companionways prevented the crew from racing from cabin to cabin to give the notice of alarm; how tongues of fire reduced some lifeboats to ashes and walls of flame formed an impassable barrier to others.

Thus the rescue facilities of the great ship itself were reduced within a short time after the fire broke out, and the heavy surf pounding the black hull of the doomed ship gravely endangered those fortunate enough to escape burning and suffocation and find themselves places in the boats that could be launched.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The burned-out Ward liner Morro Castle has been taken in tow by the U. S. Coast guard cutter, Tampa, and an effort is being made to tow her into New York, coast guard headquarters here were advised today.

The dispatch stated that an unnamed tug also had a line aboard the Morro Castle and was assisting in the steering of the burned ship.

Paul Zumbro and Dr. Burris, poultry specialists from Ohio State university, will accompany Mr. Blair on the tour.

1,700 PUPILS

will be introduced and general instructions issued.

After general instructions have been given, pupils will report to their designated session rooms where they will receive schedules and given registration sheets. Teachers will also furnish information regarding individual schedules and when registration is completed, students will go to their first period classes.

When an eight-period schedule, with each period not to exceed 35 minutes has been completed, classes will be dismissed not later than 12 noon. Pupils will be instructed relative to textbooks and a resume of courses during the short class sessions.

Textbooks will be on sale at the high school bookstore during the afternoon and will be offered to students at cost. A list of the text was printed in Thursday's Herald and Principal Gephart warns buyers of used books to be sure that they are the correct editions.

A general meeting of all city teachers will be held in Room 6 of the high school building at 2 p. m. Monday when Supt. Daley will outline his plans for the year.

It is expected that the school parade to be presented at the Pumpkin Show will be one of the subjects discussed at this meeting.

Wittich's Candy Again Is Gaining Place in Business

"A good piece of candy at a very popular price" is the motto of Fred Wittich's candy shop, 227 E. Main-st. Continuing a business that has been known to Circleville households for nearly 100 years, in fact since G. F. Wittich started to make candy here, Mr. Wittich makes all his candy right in his E. Main-st. establishment.

He invites you to stop in and watch the process which is indeed interesting.

Wittich's fine candy has gained a wide reputation and justly deserves all the praise it has received. Mr. Wittich's chocolates are all made with pure cream no water being used in the formulas. The store is open every day in addition to Saturday evening. Parking places are always available for Mr. Wittich's many friends.

The proprietor is being assisted by Miss Frances Binkley in the operation of the store.

With the fall season coming on a full line of sweets will be available with Mr. Wittich furnishing E. C. Ebert's and George Roof's stores uptown.

MARITAL QUARREL ENDS IN SHOOTING

COLUMBUS, Sept. 8.—Joseph Stolpa, 49, died in University Hospital here today from bullet wounds, said by police to have been self-inflicted after he shot and seriously wounded his wife, Emilie, 44, when she refused his overtures for a reconciliation.

Stolpa, who had been estranged from his wife, went to her home to effect a reconciliation but, according to the couple's eight-year-old son, Joseph, Jr., she slammed the door in her husband's face.

Enraged, Stolpa went to the side of the house and fired two shots through a window. One of the shots struck Mrs. Stolpa in the side. The other hit a high chair in the room.

The eight-year-old boy was in an adjoining room when the shooting took place.

LIVESTOCK SALES TOTAL $11,624.02

While preparations are going forward for next Wednesday's sale, officials of the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association announced Saturday that the total receipts of Wednesday's opening day auction were $11,624.02.

This represents the sale of 846 head of livestock.

Next Wednesday's sale will start

DAVEY'S AIDE ASSAILS FESS

Poulson Says Senator Should Withdraw; Also Ridicules Platform.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 8.—Francis Poulson, new chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, in a scathing statement commenting upon remarks of Sen. Simeon D. Fess before the Republican platform convention here, said today the senior senator from Ohio "in the name of common decency should withdraw as a candidate to succeed himself and retire immediately from the office he now holds."

Chairman Poulson also held the Republican state platform up to ridicule and accused the Republican gubernatorial nominee, Clarence J. Brown, of using in his own convention address "almost verbatim quotations from the platform Martin L. Davey, Democratic nominee, advanced when he became a candidate last January."

ASSIGNMENTS

W. Green, Columbus; J. R. Love, Rockbridge, who has also proved an excellent "press" contact man, Ernest Seymour, Junction City, Ernest Seymour, Junction City, and H. O. Davis, Bremen, home mission board.

L. B. Mignerey, Chillicothe, pastor; C. F. Luckhart, Columbus, layman, and Mrs. Alice Gayman, Canal Winchester, laywoman, members of the Ohio council of churches; C. F. Luckhart, re-elected to board of trustees; A. B. Cox, Newark, trustee of Otterbein college; C. A. Walter, Crooksville, judicial committee; W. G. Clippinger, Westerville, and A. B. Cox, trustees of Anti-Saloon league; H. C. Elliott, Hallsville; S. W. Hiles, Ashville; J. A. White, Westerville, committee on relief claimants; S. J. Nibizer, Patastala; W. F. Rutherford, Columbus, and L. B. Mignerey, Chillicothe, committee on preacher's pensions; C. M. Wagner, Baltimore; E. C. Peters, Logan; Rev. Harper; Spurgeon Metzler, Pickaway way charge, and E. B. White, Oak Hill, trustees of Otterbein home.

Rev. O. W. Smith was chairman of the nominating committee.

STATISTICS REPORTED

Rev. Love, member of the rural life committee, reported Saturday on statistics of interest to the district. There are 186 churches in southeast Ohio, with 22,683 members. The average of persons-per-church is 122. Total salaries received is $90,066 with the average for each $1,211.

These figures are for the year 1932-33.

Good music has prevailed through the entire week with a minister's quartet receiving a lot of commendation. Rev. T. C. Harper, baritone; Loren Peters, son of Rev. Peters of Logan, is first tenor; Lloyd Mignerey, Chillicothe, second tenor, and Rev. H. C. Elliott, Hallsville, basso. Peters is also a violinist of note and has played pleasingly at several sessions. A ladies' chorus directed by Mrs. Lulu Shields, of Pickerington, has also received many plaudits.

U. B. MINISTERS TO FILL PULPITS

Two Circleville congregations will have the opportunity to hear leading ministers of the southeastern Ohio district of the United Brethren church, Sunday.

Rev. John A. Toy, pastor of the 5th-ave United Brethren church, Columbus, will occupy the pulpit of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and Rev. R. S. Parr, pastor of the Wellston church, will preach at the Presbyterian church.

Both will be morning services.

Thank You, Too!

The Ohio district convention of the American Lutheran church unanimously passed the following resolution at its closing sessions Friday:

"Be it resolved that we express our gratitude to the Circleville daily paper which was so liberal in granting much space in its daily edition to reports concerning our convention.

"We appreciate this courtesy and desire that it be known."

Protecting The President

THE kidnaping threat made against the president and his grandchildren is another reminder of the hazards faced by the head of the nation's government.

The man charged with having sent the threatening letter to the white house is said to be of an unsound mind. The very act itself seems to supply corroborative evidence of this.

In the criminal element of the United States are to be found men of shrewdness and resourcefulness. This has been demonstrated in the large number of kidnapings, robberies and other crimes successfully planned and executed.
 But none of the master minds in these, it is to be believed, would be bold enough to believe that the president of the United States could be kidnaped or that he could be intimidated into paying over a large sum through fear of this.

The president of the United States is, perhaps, the most closely guarded government official in the world. Because of the safeguards thrown around him, he has virtually no privacy. Similar precautions are taken to see that no harm comes to any member of his family.

Justification of these measures are to be found in the fact that three presidents have been assassinated and that Mr. Roosevelt himself was a target for an assassination. It is nearly impossible to give a president absolute security against the danger of bullets unless he should be prevented from making public appearances. The task of preventing him from being kidnaped is a much easier one.
 It is not likely that the boldest and most resourceful of gang chiefs would regard kidnaping him
 as possible.

The danger to which a president almost daily is subjected, however, is a constant one. There are fanatics even in normal times who are ready to make attempts on his life. With unrest today more prevailing than in many years, the danger the chief executive faces consequently is increased. There should be and will be no relaxation of effort to afford him every possible protection. The country can rest assured of this.

A hick town is a place where a good day for the beauty parlor means somebody is giving a party.

Strikes Are Costly

WHO pays the cost of strikes?
 The question is a pertinent one now, with a large part of the textile industry tied up by a walkout.

The Minneapolis junior chamber of commerce has been compiling some figures that throw light on the situation. Its study was made on the basis of the recent strike
 it found were:

The striking truck drivers lost,
 in wages, $575,000.
 Employers lost, through diminished business, $200,000.

The taxpayers had to settle a bill of $450,000 incurred as result of the calling out of the national guard.

Then there were inconvenience and trouble caused the general public, and incidental money costs to these that can not be figured or estimated with any degree of accuracy. Losses caused by property damage and many other items, impossible to determine, also would have to be counted in to get the correct total cost of the strike.

The costliness of industrial warfare alone should be enough to cause both capital and labor to make every possible effort to prevent such trouble. But this seems to be the least considered in connection with strikers.

Public opinion has shown that it can compel the settlement of strikes. Eventually it may reach the point where it will act to prevent walkouts.

"MA CINDERELLA" by Harold Bell Wright

CHAPTER XXIX.

"I sure am interested, Mr. Belden. Last night, if your place is the sort of place I'm a-wantin',
 I may's well tell you right now,
 though, we uns ain't a-wantin' nothin' less'n the best what's to be had."

"Good!" ejaculated the lawyer.
 "I can assure you that this home is complete in every detail. It is distinctly a home of culture and refinement—a home of the best traditions. And, fortunately, it stands exactly as it was when the late occupant left it—the furnishings, the paintings and works of art, the library, the automobiles—even the butler who has had the management of the establishment for years. The butler, you understand, has been held to look after things pending some disposition of the property. Everything is in readiness for occupancy.

The grounds, I should add, are ample and very beautiful. It is all a bit old-fashioned, perhaps, and the city has grown up around it, but,
 as I say, it is distinctly a home of culture, of good taste, fine traditions, and beauty. But why not drive out with me right now and inspect the property—see it for yourself? My car is waiting. It will require only a little time.
 Really," he smiled, "now that I know you as Judge Shannon's friends, I am anxious, for more than business reasons, to see you settled in this ideal home."

"Hit all sounds fine, Mr. Belden," Ann returned. "But—wal, sir, I war figgerin' on gittin' Nance
 an' me some clothes first thing.
 These war air a-wantin' all right fer whar we come from, but—"

"Oh, you ladies!" cried the bachelor, gaily. "But think how much easier you'll do your shopping with your own automobile and chauffeur. Made and her son shooed John Herbert. "I am sure your son will agree with me that you will be infinitely more comfortable in the privacy of your own home with your own servants than you can possibly hope to be in this public place, particularly as the city,
 I understand, is new to you."

"I'm sure Mr. Belden is right, mother," said John Herbert. "It will take only an hour or two, and it seems to be exactly what we want."

"Really," added the lawyer, with his usual smile. "It would be an ideal place for you to entertain your friend, Judge Shannon, the first time he comes to the city."

Ann Haskel arose abruptly. "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first

 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

"Nance," said the lawyer, "I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

Ann, thrilling to the touch of her boy's hand, whispered, with full understanding, "Hit's jest like that that fairy place I done read about once, whar the princess and everything war asleep, waitin' fer the prince to come along an' wake 'em all up with a kiss." Which, we must allow, was a remarkable observation to come from a woman of Ann Haskel's general reputation.

Nance Jordan drew a long breath.
 "Smell the trees an' grass an' everything! Hit's jest like 'tis at home, ain't hit? Just prettied up a mite more. I'd sure like to walk on that grass an' feel hit under my feet—
 if a body dares."

They were met at the door by a grave-faced elderly man who bore himself with a fine air of mingled authority and deference, and who greeted Mr. Belden with restrained friendliness.

With a quiet little laugh Ann turned to the lawyer: "I'll buy hit,
 Mr. Belden, jest as hit stands. How much?"

Mr. Belden was slightly discomperted. "I fear you misunderstand me, Mrs. Haskel. The place is not for sale—that is, not at present;
 later, perhaps—well, it all depend upon certain developments. I am to lease it because, as you can readily understand, it would be much better for the place to have it occupied by good, reliable, appreciative people."

"When can we move in?"
 Mr. Belden turned to the butler.
 "How about servants, Wilson?"

"If madam desires, I can have a full staff here within two hours. I have them all in readiness as you ordered, sir. If madam wishes, she need not return to the hotel at all.
 I will arrange for the luggage to be brought immediately. If I may venture the suggestion, madam, I think you and your family would be much happier dining at home this evening. Ann looked at her son and her dark eyes were fairly dancing with delight. "I reckon me an' Herb could stand hit," she drawled. "But Nance Haskel rather go back to the hotel."

"Now, Ann Haskel," whined
 Nance, "you know good an' well that I'm a-wantin'. You ain't got no call to make fun of me jest 'cause you're in the city. You didn't never used to do hit back home."

When Mr. Belden was leaving he said: "I'm sure you will find Wilson invaluable. Mrs. Haskel. He has been in charge here for years. You can trust him to manage everything for you perfectly. I suggest that you advise with him freely. I imagine he can even tell you about the proper dressmakers. He is wise, experienced in all the ways of his former employers, and he never betrayed a confidence in all his life.
 As for myself, please feel free to call upon me at any time. I shall be most happy to serve you."

As the mountain woman and her son stood on the veranda, watching the lawyer's automobile down the drive, Ann said, in an awed half-whisper, "Hit's all jest like the story, ain't hit, Herb?"

"What story, mother? What do you mean?"

"You know," she answered—"the fairy godmother, the chariot, the prince—hit's jest like that. I
 reckon we may's well settle hit first
 as last. Git your bonnet, Nance."

PATTERN 9112

Every little girl really must wear a sailor suit at some time in her career. It is part of her education in good taste. Here is a perfect pattern with which to initiate your youngster into the mysteries of this kind of little cos-9112

time. It has a nice yoke, a good collar and well-placed pleats in the skirt and the blouse may be worn pulled over the skirt or tucked in. Make it once in plain blue flannel, of course, with a red scarf and red braid on the collar, and then for the second time make it of a smart diagonal mixture as you see it in the sketch.

Pattern 9112 may be ordered only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14.
 Size 10 requires 2 1/2 yards 54 inch fabric, and 2 1/4 yards braid.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

How would you like a book of fashions designed for sun-drenched days and starlit nights? It tells you about, and has pictures of everything from a wedding dress to a garden frock. It shows you the latest fabrics and talks wisely about beauty. In short... it's a treasure! It's the SUMMER EDITION OF THE MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK AND

 IT COSTS FIFTEEN CENTS.
 THE BOOK AND PATTERN TO-GETHER ARE TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

LIQUOR MONOPOLY BRINGS QUESTION

COLUMBUS, Sept. 8.—Intra-party harmony was the goal of the Republican party at its biennial state convention here and in the opinion of most party leaders today, the desired result was obtained.

There was unqualified rejoicing among party leaders at the apparent reconciliation between the G. O. P. gubernatorial nominee, Charles J. Brown, and his former foe, David S. Ingalls, the party nominee two years ago.

Ingalls shook Brown's hand in the presence of the 414 convention delegates and pledged his unqualified support in the November campaign against Martin L. Davey, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

In 1928, Ingalls, entering the primary campaign late, nosed out Brown with the result that there was much bitter feeling between the two camps, some of the Ingalls protagonists even going so far as to accuse Brown of aiding in the election of Gov. George White, a Democrat.

Now, however, the old rupture of two years ago seems to have healed and the Ingalls wing is whooping it up for Brown. Former State Sen. George Bender, Republican candidate for congress-at-large, assured the G. O. P. convention that Republicans of Cuyahoga county, home of two of Brown's primary opponents this year, Daniel E. Morgan and John A. Elden, as well as Ingalls, would line up solidly behind the nominee on Nov. 6.

At Democratic headquarters the platform adopted by the Republicans was criticized for "failure to take a positive stand" on such matters as taxation, education and liquor control, but its authors defended it on the grounds that it is sufficiently elastic to permit the state candidates to formulate policies as the need arises while solutions of problems promised at this stage might not be desirable a few months later.

On the important issue of the "New Deal," however, no one accused the Republicans of equivocating. Sen. Simeon D. Foss' ringing denunciation of planned economy and his suggestions for restoring normal economic conditions left no doubt that the Republicans in Ohio this fall will clash openly with the Democrats on this subject.

PLAN PACKAGE SALE
The convention provided the first real test of Republican sentiment on the desirability of liquor control through state monopoly. Judging by the attitude of most of the Republican state senators who fought state monopoly tooth and nail in the legislature, many observers had come to believe that at the first opportunity the G. O. P. would endeavor to substitute sale of package liquor by licensed retailers.

But when State Sen. J. Eugene Roberts, Youngstown, a delegate, tried to commit the party in its platform to the overthrow of state monopoly, surprisingly few delegates rallied to his support. His amendment was tabled by an overwhelming vote.

The party platform finds fault with the administration of the liquor control act by the Democrats, but contains no indictment of state monopoly in principle.

Brown, the gubernatorial nominee, promised to lose no time in decentralizing the state highway department, if elected. While his "keynote" address did not reveal what he would do with them, it did

Roosevelt Textile Strike Board

Smith Gov. John G. Winant Ingersoll

Three men named by President Roosevelt on a board to arbitrate differences between textile strikers and mill owners which led to a national strike, are shown above. Gov. John G. Winant, center, of New Hampshire, head of the board, is a liberal Republican with successful experience in settling similar disputes in his state. Marien Smith, left, is a lawyer of Atlanta, Ga., and chairman of the regional labor board at Atlanta. Raymond V. Ingersoll, right, is Democratic president of the borough of Brooklyn, and has helped to end several cloak and suit strikes.

Some sources purported to have information that Brown, if elected, is looking forward to establishing a state department of public safety, which would operate the highway patrol.

Hiram Johnson in his campaign for senator from California is claiming the support of Republicans, Democrats and Progressives. No wonder the senator is keeping quiet on issues concerning which formerly he never hesitated to express his views.

Gypsy Lore

TRENTON, N. J.—Two Gypsy women who entered the First National Bank of Hamilton Square, near here, promised to reveal all sorts of pleasant things to the employees but not the information that the bank was about to lose $2,300 via theft. After vainly trying to persuade W. L. Brainer, the cashier, and Lester Robbins, the bank's teller, to "have their fortunes told" the two members of the nomad tribe waited until Brainer's back was turned and stealthily removed $2,300 in bills from the cage.

Japan's Denunciation of Naval Treaties to Start Arms Race

WASHINGTON—Confidential reports reaching naval and military circles indicate that Japan will denounce the Washington and London Naval Treaties in late November. This means that the arms race is on in full force. In preparation, the Navy already has made some surveys of Guam, Midway and other Pacific Islands as air bases. They make natural stepping stones to the Philippines.

Mrs. Nye, wife of the youthful senator from North Dakota, keeps a watchful eye on her husband. During the Munitions investigation she noticed that he had run out of cigarettes. She passed up a cigarette case, later sent out for a fresh package.

The head of the Munitions investigation Committee was forced by lack of funds. It had not intended staying its first session until next Spring. However, the Senate Budget Committee was going to shut off the investigation with almost no funds, so the Committee decided to give the public a brief glimpse of the munitions racket, whet its thirst for more.

Textile Strike

No strike in history has had such an efficient publicity office as the textile strike headquarters in Washington. It has forced the textile employers to hire Bill Lawson away from the NRA publicity bureau at a fat salary. It is a fact that old line A. F. of L. leaders were vigorously opposed to the textile strike. They were afraid they could not hold their workers in line. The issue was forced by the rank and file. Up until near the strike's zero hour, textile employers thought labor was bluffing. Also the employers were strengthened by the fact that a large textile surplus was on hand. They had been asking the NRA for a short shutdown in order to clear up reserves. The strike is giving it to them. Privately, members of the National Labor Board express surprise that so many workers have struck. They estimate the walk-out at fifty per cent, believe this will increase. Reason for the expected increase is the fact that skilled machinists have struck upon them, unskilled labor is largely dependent.

Running Low

The $956,000,000 voted to the FEHA for unemployment relief last February is running low.

Less than $100,000,000, insufficient to cover October demands, remains. This does not mean, however, that federal aid is in danger either of drying up or being slashed. Under the $899,675,000 PWA and RFC Deficiency Appropriation Act passed in the closing day of the last session, the President has the power to allocate any portion of this fund he deems necessary to the FEHA. No matter how hot the weather, gruff, brusquely-mannered U. S. Supreme Court Justice James C. McReynolds wears long leather gauntlets when driving his car. They protect his wrists from sunburn. Politics is a queer game. While northern Tory Republicans, led by Delaware's Senator Daniel O. Hastings, are lambasting the Administration's TVA project as socialistic, many Republican candidates in the South are running on platforms acclaiming it.

Security

Joe Kennedy, hard-working chairman of the Securities Commission and ex-Wall Street speculator, is turning out to be harder on speculators than some of the Commission's much-vaunted Liberals. Joe, who has made considerable jack in his day, says he would rather have less but be sure that at least some was left for his kids. He has nine. Ex-Senator Hiram Bingham, now President of the National Aeronautics Association, is angling for a toehold that will put him back into national politics. Back in 1926, Bingham was Governor of Connecticut for one day, having been elected Senator before he was inducted as Governor. Senator Hugh Black, chairman of the ocean and airmail investigating committee, has told Postmaster General J. M. Farley privately that the Government could deduct $15,000,000 from the $28,000,000 it is now paying annually on ocean mail contracts, without the slightest impairment of service. Under a recent Presidential order the Post Office Department is making a searching study of ocean mail contracts, preparatory to a complete overhauling of the system.

House-Cleaning

The Home Owners Loan Corporation is conducting a quiet house-cleaning among its state managers. In eight states—Maine, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, California, Indiana, Michigan, and North Carolina—changes already have been made. Inside word is that others are in the making. Theodore G. Bilbo, former AAA newspaper clipper, up for run-off in the Mississippi Senatorial primary, is not easily fazed. Years ago, while running for office after a trial for embezzlement, he went up and down the state saying: "The prosecutor said I was guilty, some of the witnesses said I was guilty; but the jury, the jury, boys and girls, said I was innocent." He was elected. When the Post Office Department moved out of its old castle building, the AAA sent in its overflow crop control administration, but found the elevators so decrepit that it had to spend $60,000 to install new ones. The biggest stumbling block the new Housing Administration has so far encountered is trying to justify the 9.72 per cent interest being charged for loans. Numerous and ingenious explanations have been devised, but none owners who have to pay the money refuse to be smoothed. Representative Robert Luce, leading Congressional authority on parliamentary procedure, is having the right of his life to retain his Massachusetts seat. The Democrats are concentrating a heavy fire on him because of his strong opposition to Administration policies. Democratic sharpshooters are digging up the campaign speeches of Al Smith and former Governor Nathan Miller of New York, now fellow "Founding Father" of the new American Liberty League. The two men fought two bitter gubernatorial contests against one another in the early '20s. (Copyright, 1934, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Cleveland Buys Wright, Slugger

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8.—Announcement was made here today that Abby Wright, big right hander, has been purchased from Minneapolis by the Indians and will report for duty next spring. Wright is expected to be assigned the right field patrol where the need of a slugging gardner has been emphasized for a long while.

Wright, tall and brawny, is hitting .300 in the American association and is leading the loop in the number of hits.

The Indians also have their eyes on Vernon Washington, clouting right fielder of the Indianapolis team.

Wright is the second star to go to a big league in recent weeks, the New York Giants having signed Bill Myers, of Columbus. Rip Radcliff of Louisville is due for another trial with the Chicago White Sox while Marty Hopkins, of St. Paul, is now playing third base for the same team. A number of other AA stars are expected to graduate.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 8.—With the twin-bill yesterday a split decision, the second-place Columbus Red Birds and the Louisville Colonels were to cross their bats again here tonight.

Ward Cross, Columbus relief pitcher, saved the first game for the Red Birds who breezed through to a 5 to 2 victory but when called out in the second tilt he was unable to turn the trick and the Colonels took a 9 to 6 count.

Three three-base hits were the longest clouds of the day, and Nick Culp, Columbus slugger, bagged two of them.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 8.—With their tilt yesterday rained out, the Indianapolis Braves and the Toledo Mud Hens were to meet in a night encounter tonight.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—The Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphia Nats were to meet in a double-header here this afternoon after rain washed out their scheduled tilt yesterday.

Geyser Swimming Pool

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo.—Bathing and swimming in the warm waters of Old Faithful geyser have been added to Yellowstone Park's recreation program by recent improvements. A sky-light of blue-green glass covers 4,793 square feet, enclosing a 50 by 150-foot pool, permitting the sunlight to enter during the day-time but retaining the natural warmth of the water at night. Natural flow of the geyser changes the water completely every six hours.

The law, as Dickens said, is an ass. It lets a mean little rogue defraud you and then won't let you lick him.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

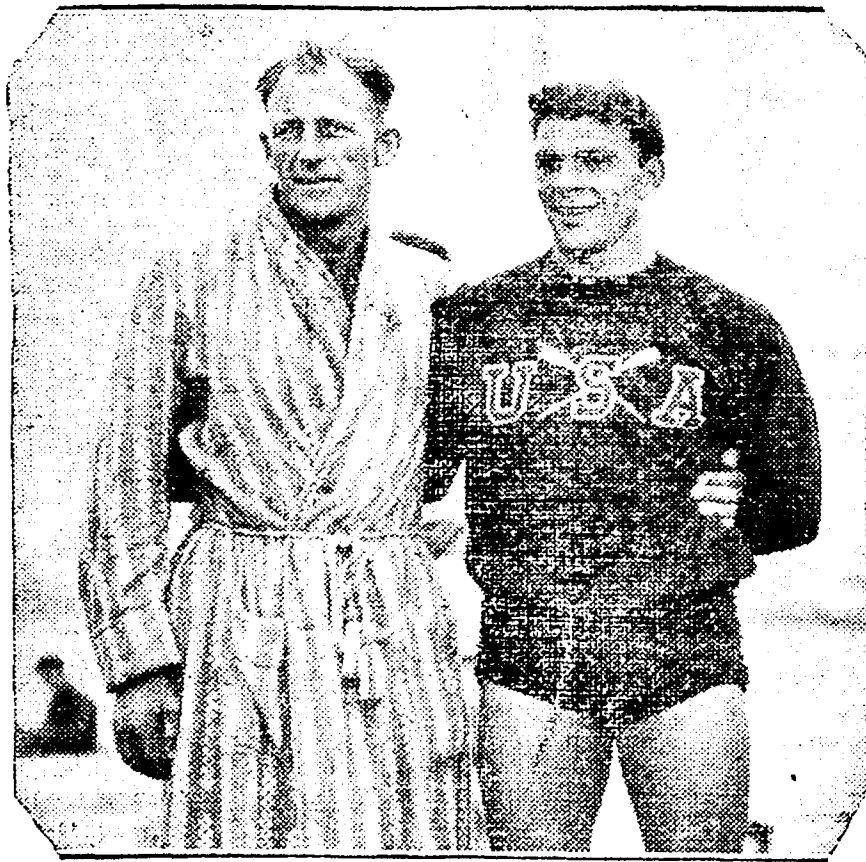

SOME PROGRESS IS BEING made in the Pickaway Country club golf tournament with more expected during the next week. The weather has not been so satisfactory thus far matches have been played several contestants, too, have been out of the city.

We read in the London paper where Alan Kulp, who has second year against the local team in matches played this year, has won a silver cup as champion of the London country club. He easily defeated Jola Dismore eight up and seven to play.

Get ready for Westerville, boys and girls, because Coach Frank Ballinger's boys who finished in a tie for first last year, are again strong. The prohibition town's team has four veterans returning to the backfield including Captain Collier, a whiz a year ago. Parker, Bruizer and Harris. Line veterans include McVay, Weaver and Harrington. Westerville opens at Columbus Central under the incandescents on Sept. 14.

WE HEARD GEORGE GAUTHIER, Ohio Wesleyan coach, interviewed over the air Friday evening and the Bishop mentor intimated rather strongly that he expects to alter his offense this fall. He has mighty poor line material although a number of veterans are returning to the backfield including Howard White, John Turley and Doc Wertz. Gauthier gave Turley quite a boost in the interview naming him one of the best passers in the country, which was doubt. Howard White and brother, Dean, a sophomore, are looked

TITLE MATCH IS AGAIN POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—In line with our daily communique on the subject, we wish to announce that the banes between James McLarnin and Barney Ross, nee Rosofsky, are now being published for the first time. The ceremony it seems is to take place tonight. It was to have taken place on Tuesday night, with upward of 40,000 witnesses quite prepared to be agog and agape about it all. But it rained.

It rained again last night. It was still raining at six o'clock this morning.

If it continues to rain upon this second episode of the serial for the welterweight championship of the world, our course will be clear. We'll go out there to Pago-Pago, the land of Sadie Thompson and eternal rainfall, and finish it in bathing suits. There remained, however, an alternative in case of rain tonight. The fight could and probably would be postponed until next Wednesday, by which time I'm afraid that the principals will not be prepared to do themselves justice. They'll be all tired out from resting.

MADISON HORSES WIN IN INDIANA

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Madison-co draft horses, winners of many ribbons at the Ohio State Fair, upheld the honor of the state's horse-flesh at the Indiana State Fair at Indianapolis by taking many blue ribbons, according to word received here today.

Martin Elliott's five-months-old Percheron filly colt, who was the sensation at the Ohio fair, swept off all competition at Indianapolis, winning in all classes in which it showed. The colt, sired, by the noted Lafayette, established a record at Columbus of being the first colt in the history of the show that went from the filly class to the champion bred and owned in Ohio. Lafayette, owned by Cecil Reed, of London, took the first award at Indianapolis in the aged Percheron stallion class, marking the 17th time it has won such honors.

LOU BROUILLARD NEAR TITLE BOUT

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Lou Brouillard, Worcester, Mass., moved nearer a second middleweight championship bout today with his technical knockout victory over Solly Dukelsky of Chicago.

The Worcester southpaw, former welterweight and middleweight champion, said he would challenge the winner of the Teddy Yarosz-Vince Dundee bout at Yonkers Monday. Brouillard was awarded a technical knockout after 44 seconds of fighting in the seventh round last night at Mills stadium. Until the seventh Dukelsky was able to weather the two-fisted attack of the ex-champion. But Brouillard opened the round with a stunning left hook that jarred Dukelsky to the heels and followed it with a severe two handed pummeling to the body and head. Dukelsky was so stunned Referee Tommy Thomas called a halt to the proceedings.

"THAT LITTLE GAME" --- The Crook Grows

TOM, I PULLED A RICH ONE ON THE GANG LAST NIGHT! I SAT ON JIM'S RIGHT, HE DEALT AND ONLY GAVE ME FOUR CARDS, I DIDN'T NOTICE IT UNTIL IT WAS TOO LATE, SO I DIDN'T SAY NOTHIN'. THEY ALL PASSED AROUND TO ME AND I OPENED STRONG WITH A PAIR OF JACKS, FOUR OF THE BIRDS STAYED AND I STOOD PAT AND KICKED THE POT FOR THE LIMIT, THEN THEY ALL "DITCHED" BUT HARRY, HE BOOSTED A LITTLE AND I HIRED 'ER UP AGAIN. HE MUSTA FORGOT I WAS PAT, 'CAUSE HE SAID "SAY, YOU STOOD PAT, DIDN'T YOU?" AND I SAID "YOU BET I DID, HARRY." SO HE THREW DOWN HIS MITT, I SHOWED MY "BREAKERS", SLID MY FOUR CARDS INTO THE DISSY AND WON WITH A "DEAD HAND"—HAW-HAW—

YOU KNOW WHAT I'VE ALWAYS SAID, MAC—YOU HAVE MORE LUCK THAN BRAINS.
